

“Much of the success and recognition we have received is as a result of our effort in the field of safety. It is gratifying to be rewarded for doing what we thought was the right thing to do.”

- Rocky Turner, President
LPR Construction Company, Loveland

Reaching high is everyday business at LPR Construction. When an ironworker walks the high steel for LPR, he knows that the job will be done on time, on budget and well.

He also knows that his safety is more important to his employer than anything else.

When Rocky Turner talks about “doing what we thought was the right thing to do” it goes far beyond their outstanding record for on-the-job safety.

LPR Construction shows us that when the principles of ethical behavior begin with taking care of one individual, it will become the underlying structure of business success.

LPR Construction is a co-inventor of the BeamSafe® tie-off system.
